New York Stock Market

New York, October 5.—The selling of stocks which turned prices downwards to-day represented in part a feeling of contentment over the extent of the advance already achieved, and the profits accrued, and in part a misgiving over the adequacy of forces to accomplish further advance. Evidence that the newly awakened demand for bonds was being harmed by the action of the stock market was a potent factor in checking the organized efforts to further the rise in stocks

Sanized efforts to further the rise in Stocks

Light is thrown on the revival in the bond market, as well as on the ecents that preceded it, by the statistics of new capital issued, which have been made up by the Journal of Commerce. For the third quarter of the present year just ended, this compilation shows new issues of a par value of §194,455,000. This compares with $417,147,000 in the second quarter, and $613,285,000 in the first quarter, making an aggregate for the first half year far beyond any precedent in the history of the New York money market. Moreover that prodigious semi-annual output was a culmination of a flood of issues for the preceding year, which reached a total of $1,881,620,680. The slowing down in the output shown by the third quarter of the present year was closely paralleled in the London market, where a similar heavy congestion of new securities had resulted from the first half year's output. At the same time, it is known that the banks broughout the country have applied a like restrictive force or credit expansion for land and autoput. At the same time, that the banks broughout the country have applied a like restrictive force on credit expansion for land and automobile purchase, irrigation projects and other enterprises. The diminution in the rate of the supply offered for new investment is seen, therefore, to have reached a very large total. A gradual process of digestion has gone on, in the meantime, which has reduced the large holdings left on the hands of the underwriters in the glut of new offerings early in the year. Dealers in bonds have come to the underwriters to replenish their supplies and savings banks, and investment institutions have become buyers. This help-
